Details

If you're after a tough as nails hydration system that still gives you the extra space to carry gear, then you can rely on the Camelbak Mule for all your needs.

Even though this pack is built with military specifications in mind, the Mule is the perfect hydration pack to throw over your shoulder on hikes, bushwalks or even long runs with the family dog. The exterior performs well in the outdoors as its compactness stops branches and undergrowth tugging at your pack when you're out in the elements.

With all of the classic Camelbak features including the reservoir hydration system, MOLLE panels on the lower pockets, side release straps for quick removal and air panels for increased ventilation - you'd be hard-pressed to find a better lightweight pack that you can also store water in.

Organiser in lower pocket for essential items
 Side-release shoulder straps
 Lower drink tube exit ports for routing tube underarm
 Detachable hip straps
