Details

You've just spent what feels like a lifetime chopping, simmering and finishing off your pasta sauce - all you need to do is drain your spaghetti and you're ready to eat a well-deserved meal. The problem? You've forgotten to bring a colander with you on your trip. So you try and drain it the old fashioned way without one - but it backfires, slopping on the ground leaving you hungry and on the verge of a rage blackout.

Don't be caught out without all of your essential camp kitchen items again, and get yourself a portable, space-saving design like the PopUp Colander and Bowl. Not only do you get two items in one - these products fold up easily and fit into each other for easy storage.

On your next caravanning or camping trip, make sure you bring a colander, so you can wash and drain your food without any food preparation disasters.
