Details

Whether you're playing an intense game of cricket, going on a long and brutal hike, or working outside all day - the Chill Towel from Thorzt will keep you cool.

This towel works to mimic evaporative cooling. All you do is soak it in water for 3-5 minutes, wring it out, and wave it and the cooling fibres will be activated. Then you just give it another wave every 15-20 minutes to reactivate the cooling process. You can also re-wet it every few hours depending on what you need.

The Chill Towel also has microbial properties, to minimise any mould or mildew making it a must-have for the worksite, summer camping expeditions and for warm weather sports.
